“ To the Family and Friends of Richard: Just a word of sadness to learn of Rick's passing way to early. I had the pleasure to be a commercial bank loan officer for Rick's business needs. Two things come to mind. One, when he was leading the renovation of the Athenaeum building and Two, his purchase of the Town of Story IN. Rick's enthusiasm was infectious. It was my pleasure to know and work with Rick. Please accept my Heartfelt Condolence for your loss.

“ Competitive Swimming is, understandably, often considered an individual sport. But within this sport we form extraordinary lifelong friendships with our teammates. Hoffy was a beloved teammate to all of us. Throughout the years of grueling training, testing our own physical limits to the edge and beyond, Rick helped everyone on the team in innumerable ways with our effort to swim fast and smart. I'd often hear Hoffy offering stroke advice and race strategy, helping settle the nerves of underclassmen moments before a big event. Or simply setting the example in the water by winning his event in record time and a few hours later "kicking ass" again, helping IU's relay team set an American Record.

To Ingrid, Karl, Anna and Rich, we swimmers who had the privilege of training with your Dad will always respect his high intellect and work ethic. And his renowned love of pranks left indelible memories to those of us on the receiving end of that as well! It's a blessing to have known Rick. I send my Best Wishes and Condolences to your Family.

“ I first met Rick when I was a senior in high school and he was recruiting me to swim at IU. His enthusiasm for the team was one of the reasons I went there. He also was a Teacher's Assistant in one of my first classes freshman year, and he took me under his wing academically as well. I only spent one year at IU but Rick was a true mentor and a big part of my most significant memories of that special year. He was inspiring in many ways Over the many years since then I have thought of him often. I am certain that there are countless others who benefits just from knowing him, even briefly. Blessings and peace to the entire family. Karl Fickenscher
