“ My Most vivid memory of Anna June dates from a long time ago. My mother and I were visiting Anna June's mother one sunny summer morning in Kentucky -- my mother was seated in a chair with a glass of iced tea in her hand and I was seated on the grass. I must have been about eight years old that morning when Anna June arrived flushed and radiant in a fresh cotton sundress, announcing her engagement to Buddy Boyd. I remember my mother admiring the ring Anna had on her left hand.I even got to see it. This all seemed very grown up and exciting.

To my mind, Anna June looked like the actress June Allyson, but much prettier. The last time I saw Anna June she was still pretty, with lovely white hair, happy to share some grown up advice with a cousin who shared her middle name and whose hair was going whiter by the day. Always wear bright colors, Anna June said. And she was right.
