“ Carla was my mothers neighbor and friend, and when my mom died, she became my friend. She helped me clean out my mothers house, and helped me so much after mom died. She used to eat at my moms house quite often, and then would come to our house. We would make food ahead for the week, and we were like a well oiled machine. We would package food for her to take home too. This filled a big void for both of us. She was close to my kids as well. She introduced us to Lindt chocolates, and always brought them when she came over. My husband would jokingly tease her about her German accent. When mom and Carla came over, he would try to mimic her accent. He would say Zoolaa and Caaaaala! She always laughed! I loved this lady so much, and she will be greatly missed! She was one of kind !
