“ We want to thank all the Piccione's for sharing your lives with ours over the years. Our families first met in the 70's., in a very brief encounter...that initiated and bonded our friendship in ways that only God could understand.

God used "The nun's" to not only keep both of our families in touch, but also in prayer for guidance over the years. Whenever we met one of them wherever, they always kept us "in the loop" of what all the other families are into....as best they can

The years rolled on, the families grew and God continued to keep the Piccione and Bryan clans in touch ...one way or another...

If there is one point to remember to live on, it is the value of taking each present moment as a precious moment...living it to the fullest measureso that through it all, no matter what may come....whenever people meet one of the Piccione's or the Bryan's, they have met a family that lives, laughs, learns and leaves a memory with all...that lasts a lifetime...

Even if but for a moment, during a spontaneous visit to our home....that ended with Cathy being tossed into a pool....maybe that moment was the moment that baptized and bonded our family friendship..

So, we let our love flow...and thank God for the season of a life time...

Our love and prayers to all
