“It is hard to express the peace I felt each time I was in the presence of Cindy. Cindy was a strong woman with a pure heart, intelligent, dedicated, a leader, and in many ways a gentle giant. Here serene joy of life ever present, delicately flavoring her thoughts, her conversation, her words. She overcame adversity with love, and in so doing made a path for others to follow. She bore the torch of hope with courage, grace and dignity. She loved her family. She loved her friends. She was reinforced by the love and support of her practice physicians and staff, something she spoke of freely and often to me. She took nothing for granted and was as freshly delighted with the renewed support of friends as if it were the first. In short, Cindy was a hard act to follow. Above all else, she loved Lucy—her reason—and I quote her “for getting up every day.” Lucy was her delight, her sunshine. I looked forward to and sought out opportunities to chat or visit with Cindy. Her voice always soothing; her chuckle soft and ever present. She will always be to me, and I know to many others, an inspiration. Even as her soul journeys forward, I believe her spirit dwells in the heart of each of us who knew her. I hope that those precious moments she shared with those who were closest to her will sustain you through this tough time and until that day when your feet, too, no longer walk this soil.

Cindy, I never met you; but I had the opportunity to work with your sister Valarie Millard–Combs who is a Dear friend. Valarie talked about you a lot; she had lots of good things to say about you. She and I prayed and cried together. I pray that God receives you in His loving arms and that you rest in peace. Valarie, my heart hurts for you; I pray that God almighty bless and comfort you and your family.

Your friend,
