In the fog of the moment I made an egregious and unforgiveable omission in the construction of my father's obituary. After the death of my mother, my father married Frances. She was a great lady, and I owe her a great debt of gratitude. He could not have been more loved or better taken care of. Sadly she is no longer with us to hear this but I know she is listening. I also am indebted to Frances' son, Terry, who lived across the street and tended to my father on a daily basis. He was always there for him for anything he needed. Then there was Linda. He loved her so. She did the grunt work. She did his shopping and laundry and made sure all the bills got paid and that he had his medicine and did countless other things to see to his well being. I thank you. Those 3 words are not enough. Frances also had a daughter, Sally, who lives in the Carolinas. My memory fails me but I believe in Myrtle Beach. Dad always spoke kindly of her saying how warm and gracious she was to him. What a fine family. I owe you so much. All of your efforts gave me total peace of mind.

“ To my second dad, I have known you almost 50 years and will miss your laugh yearly when I called and sang a fast version of Happy Birthday To You then quickly hung up the phone. Knowing you found it funny made it all the better. You will be missed and never forgotten.

“ My deepest condolences for the loss of Dale. My God Mother, Frances Williamson Chandler, was his second wife, who spent her last 11 years with Dale. She told me she loved being on the pedestal that he placed her upon in those years, after the loss of their spouses, a few years prior to their marriage. I am so pleased Mom had those last years with Dale & the happiness they shared together.
