I sit here in my chair looking at a shell of what was once a very amazing woman. Even sleeping now she has that calm, gentle at-peace look. If we look at her life in the later years, God gave her a very daunting task. To endure the death of her mother, Dorothy, from Diabetes; her father, Ed, from Cancer; Kim's father, Kenny, from Congestive Heart Failure at 42; and Carl passed from ALS. That enough-is-enough to break anyone. Still she pushed on. She raised one of the most amazing people I know. She passed her kindness and compassion to her daughter (my wife). I realize how lucky and how blessed I've been to have known Judy. She lays there in her bed sleeping. We know not what is going through her mind. Soon she will be with the ones who have passed and she will be a memory. We the family and friends that have known her are the luckiest. We will be able to talk about a woman that was small in size but had the heart and compassion of a giant. We love you Judy. Rest now and be at peace knowing you have created endless love and memories for us all.
