“ Scott

My heart is still breaking from the news of Lance's passing. I know today will be the hardest day for you and I just want you to know that I will be there in celebration of what a wonderful human being Lance was. He was my knight in shining armor and went up to Agape for the first time with me when I was scared of horses. It was through that night we talked a lot about his passion for horses and how he wanted to get back into being around them. I had a long hour conversation the Friday before his passing and I know he was so happy that he was with the horses again and he was very happy being with you and the pups. He will be forever missed my heart just hurts!! Way too young! Sending hugs.Amy Corey “Lance was a fantastic man with a wonderful sense of humor and a genuine and caring heart. He could brighten any room he walked into and just drew people to him. Knowing him from both the personal and professional standpoints, I can say that he set a high bar for building relationships and showing people he cared about them.

Lance, you will be greatly missed among our friends and our work colleagues. The world is a better place because of you and the light you brought to it.

“Offering my deepest condolences to Scott, Lance's family, colleagues and close friends. I didn't see Lance as frequently in recent years as we did when we were younger, but when I did he would always take a moment to say hi and catch up for a bit. He was a kind person and he'll be missed even more than usual because of it.

“ Although we can't be with you in Indianapolis at this sad time are thoughts are with you all.
We met up with Lance on many occasions and knew him to be sincere, compassionate, fun loving and a great friend to Erin. It is a privilege to have known him.
Our condolences to Scott, Dorothy and family.
