“ I am a social worker, who worked with Lincoln as a young boy. I remember him as being very bright and enthusiastic. I always looked forward to my days with him. Rest in peace, sweet Lincoln. Condolences to his very dedicated and loving mother, Sheila.

“ Lincoln, you and used to play video games online when we were both young. Heartbroken to discover your passing. We never knew each other in real life, but I like to think your personality transcended the screen barrier. Hope you are at peace.

“ I met Lincoln through a mutual friend. We hit it off almost instantly. He was wise for being young and his heart was made of gold. I remember guiding him around my college campus and us cracking blind jokes and me describing people's reactions. He got me and my dark twisted sense of humor and never judged me. He may not have been able to see people's faces but he saw what was in their souls and he made the world a brighter place. RIP Lincoln. I miss you man.

“ Lincoln was such an intelligent young man. He didn't care for school and tests, but could talk hours about subjects he loved. He never let his blindness interfere with his life. One time he called his Grandpa and said he was interviewing for a "Car Salesman" position. Another time he called to say a raccoon kept getting in the garbage cans. He was going to go out with his rifle and shoot it. When our 4 year old grandson met his cousin, he had on his cowboy hat and a plaid shirt. Tanner thought he was woody. Lincoln thought that was hilarious. Lincoln loved country music and had a wonderful voice. Although we are heartbroken, we are also rejoicing that Lincoln can now do all the things and see everything he missed here on earth. FLY HIGH LINCOLN. UNTIL WE MEET AGAIN. LOVE , GRANDPA & GRANDMA CAROL HALL.
