“ There are no words that can take away the pain of losing a loved one. Nothing will fill the void you feel from losing Paul. This day will always be a part of your soul, but the pain felt so deeply today will over time eventually ease. We have to take peace in knowing Paul is in a better place now.

I am so sorry I was unable to be there today. Just know all of you are in my prayers today and the days to come.

Paulie, I will always remember your voicemails that said you just wanted to hear my voice. Now I wish I could hear yours again. I will always remember, "can we tawk?" Someday we will have those long conversations again. I will always be your Lizzie, and you will always be my Paulie. Until we meet again, I will always remember and miss you, and love you.

Paul....love you, honey. I was so happy to spend precious time with you recently. I remember you making a recording of Grandma Domi singing "You are my Sunshine" and I'm glad I got to sing it to you during our recent time together. You ate every bit of the chicken rice soup I brought and it reminded me of our family traditions and togetherness as kids. I told you about our recent trip to Greece and that we lit candles for everyone. You asked if I lit one for your dad and I am happy that you knew we did. A candle will be lit for you soon. I always loved that you remembered every little thing about our grandma and you would remind me of fun stories about her. I will miss you, Paulie, but I am glad you are finally at peace. Sheila “ Paulie, as we have always called him stayed with his Aunt and Uncle, Bob and Lucille Jones every summer in Livonia. Me and my sister Rita looked forward to him staying with us. Mom would keep Kool-Aid in the fridge and fresh baked goodies on the counter. We would play all day. In the evening we would go for a bike ride with Aunt Mac around the "8 mile block." My grandpa jones would take us to town to Duffy's to get a "Duffy burger." We usually played outside until dark about every night . I will always cherish those memories! We loved him so! He will be missed!
