“ Been thinking of your wonderful father for the past few days. I was so blessed to spend so much time with him last year, we had some wonderful chats that I will never forget. Your father, forever the gentleman. He couldn't breathe much, but always got up when I walked into the room. I remember the first time I met him I asked what "he" wanted. He said I want to go be with my wife, such a warming answer, but Berry and I said, sorry, God isn't ready for you, so let's get up and get stronger and go home. He always had candy in his room, was always concerned about every one else. One of the last TRUE Gentlemen of the Community. Thank you for sharing him with me. I am sure he is dancing with your beloved Mother and breathing so easy.

Continued prayers and healing hugs coming your way!!! 🙏🙏🙏🙏
