“ I was one of seven of Ronnie’s nephews I never really interacted with him with how far we lived from him but I was happy to see him one last time in his trip to Arizona. I also give my condolences to the lady on the back of the motorcycle who’s name idk but she was in the army.

“ You wasn't just my brother. You were my friend. My partner in crime. My #1 alliance. My confidante. My go to for anything no matter how big or small. You were the smartest person I've ever known. You knew that too, as I mentioned it often. We knew each others deepest secrets. You were the the most important man in my life. You took special care of all 3 of your sisters. You loved your family unconditionally. They broke the mold when you were created. Life is going to be very difficult without you in it. I vow to keep your memory alive forever. Your family (Dad, Mom, Veronica, Kristina, Grandma and myself) will keep a close eye on Alex to ensure that he is taught the things a man ought to know. I love you Wonnie!!!! I'll see you later little brother.

I love you baby boy. You were my life for 40 years... I'm trying to go on with out you.. It isn't easy but we will make it.. I see you in my dreams and every room I walk into.... I am thankful I got to see you the last day and tell you I love you. You always said I love you momma. Kristina calls me that too. You and your teddy bear and the blanket I made you before you were born are all tucked together in the baby crib.. I love and miss you so much. Please look over Alex, your sisters and your dad.. My heart died the day you did..... The girls always said you was my favorite child..... You were my favorite SON always will be..... My heart hurts... Uncle Mike had a brick made in you name to go down on the circle.. I can't wait to see it put down right next to your Uncle David...
