“ Sabrina was my biological sister. It is a crazy story how we were introduced into each others lives many years ago. Though it has not been legally proven we were quite convinced that we were related. As I was a stupid teenager, I eventually lost contact with her. I really deeply regret allowing that to happen. About a year ago, I found her on Facebook. We chatted a little back and forth. When I found out she had cancer, I knew I had to get to her. We made a couple attempts to get together and they both got canceled due to her illness or my husbands work schedule. I finally got to see her last Fri. Then only 3 days later she was called home. I'm very grateful for that time I got to sit and talk with her. She was a beautiful person and I will miss her dearly.

“ I didn't know Sabrina very well. I work for the same company as she (USIC Locating) and had the pleasure of speaking with her many times. She was such a sweet person and I wish I'd known her better. My heartfelt prayers and condolences go out to her and her family. God Bless.....
