“ Some of my fondest childhood memories are with Vera and her husband, Henry. My family used to live next door on 20th Place in Indianapolis. My little 2 year old self would walk over and ask Vera for candy. Vera always asked if I had my dinner. I replied with a yes and then she asked what had been served. “Green greens”, was always my answer. I loved most hearing Vera retell that story.

After my family moved away from 20th Place, we visited every Christmas Eve after we had visited my grandparent’s house. Henry and Vera were always so happy to see us, and Sam too. Sam was the most friendly and handsome cat. The Spence’s were thoughtful and gave me, my brother and sister a book or set of books as a Christmas gift. I still own a set of those books and read them to my daughter.

Thank you for the fond memories on 20th Place.
