In 1958, with Virginia expecting her first child, Robert accepted a promotion with Merrill Lynch, moving to Denver, CO as an operations manager. The Hullinger's had two children, Jeffrey born in 1958, and Cindy in 1962. Their journey of marriage included parenting, travel and following their favorite sports teams.

Robert died of Leukemia in 1990 and Virginia continued her work in medical records at North Willow Nursing Home in Indianapolis. It is there she met and maintained many friendships. Virginia's legacy can be seen through her children, grandchildren and now a great grandchild. All have been high achievers in their universities and career's. Jacqueline Kennedy once said, "if you bungle raising your children, I don't think whatever else you do matters very much". Virginia raised terrific children and in that sense her legacy is secure.
